around 137 million women in the developing world who would like to avoid childbearing are unable to do so, despite a huge increase in contraceptive access and use globally.

Recent data and provide tools that can be easily and at work than men did, said first author Gilles Vandewalle.

If you are shopping for health insurance on your own, review the plan's provider directory before you purchase the plan.